

ABSTRACT

A system and business method for enabling photolabs to provide digital image processing services, and at the same time, to provide the photolabs with the ability to use their own branding in connection with their services and to the control of all business aspects of the service, including the creation of a customized website, digital image product offerings, branding, pricing, promotions, advertisements, and film prints and related image imprinted product fulfillment.